Letter from the Baronage

Ragnarok has come and gone and we are still here!

With this year's Ymir behind us, we pause to reflect on the event. We were blessed by talented and dedicated staff who coordinated many activities throughout the day. We welcomed newcomers and returning friends and suffered a loss to our community.

Thank you to everyone for being patient and understanding as we dealt with a very challenging situation on Saturday evening. We were so very delighted to see how people came together and cannot say how appreciative we are of those who donated food stuffs, drinks, and anything else so that we might feed those who were unexpectedly delayed. Also, we are extremely grateful to our event staff and baronial officers who performed with grace under pressure.

This month we will attend Le Grande Tournoi d'Amitie (The Grand Tournament of Friends) co-hosted by the Cantons of Attilium and Elvegast. Here, we will select many of our baronial champions including: rapier, armoured, equestrian, performing & static arts, and brewing. If it is your desire to be considered as a potential champion, we will ask you to demonstrate your skill in your chosen field and participation in one of the other two pillars of the SCA (martial, arts & sciences, or service). Please let us know if you have any questions. Additionally, we seek award recommendations so that we may set our court docket for this event. Finally, we look forward to seeing the effort of the Canton in the gift exchange that is to occur during court.

Also, please don't forget to mark your calendar for the next baronial gathering on Sunday, March 16th beginning at 1 PM at Optimist Farm. There will be fighting, arts & sciences, and a baronial meeting.

Sincerely,
Callixtus & Adriana

WINDMASTERS' HILL COOKS GUILD

Tewkesbury Mustard

Lady Helen Goodchilde

In 16th century England, one of the most popular sauces or condiments is mustard. "Henry Buttes, in his Dyets Dry Dinner of 1599, described it as a 'Good sauce for sundrie meates, both flesh and fish; English Mustard; that is, much tart'."

You see references to mustard in writings of the 16th century. Some good examples are found in some of Shakespeare's plays. In Henry IV, Part II (Act 2, Scene 4) Falstaff insults someone by stating "his wit's as thick as Tewkesbury mustard". In Taming of the Shrew (Act 4, Scene 3) there is a conversation between Grumio and Katherine about eating beef with some mustard, and how the mustard might be too hot for her. There is yet another conversation in As You Like It (Act 1, Scene 2) between Rosalind and Touchstone swearing if a mustard was good or not.

Tewkesbury mustard is a mustard & horseradish sauce referenced in Henry IV, Part II. I have not found a period recipe for this mustard; however, Tewkesbury has been "celebrated for its manufacture of mustard balls, which were sent to the most remote parts of the country, and being remarkably pungent, gave rise to the proverb, 'he looks as if he lived on Tewkesbury mustard'". According to a current British manufacturer of Tewkesbury mustard, "Legend has it that Tewkesbury Mustard Balls covered in gold leaf were presented to Henry VIII when he visited Tewkesbury in 1535.... the ingredients were simply local grown mustard seed, mixed with an infusion of horseradish, formed into balls and then allowed to dry on a board. The customer would then cut off as much as was required and steep it in water, milk, cider or cider vinegar until it was workable. The resultant mustard was "thick and pungent". This recipe is similar to other mustard balls like the "Balled Mustard for Trips" recipe from Cuoco Napoletano: The Neapolitan Recipe Collection or the "Mustard Sauce in Bits" from On Right Pleasure and Good Health where mustard seeds are mixed with other spices and flavorings and formed into balls and dried for later reconstitution.

Tewkesbury Mustard Balls

2 oz. whole mustard seed
2 oz. fresh horseradish (finely grated)
Liquid for reconstitution (vinegar, wine, verjuice, etc.)

Take the mustard seeds and grind them with the horseradish. Once a paste has been made, make walnut sized balls of the paste and put them on a rack to dry. To use, reconstitute the mustard by breaking up the mustard balls into verjuice (a non-fermented sour grape juice), grape juice, wine or vinegar.

Announcement Regarding the Society Chirurgeonate Request for Comments

The SCA Board of Directors seeks commentary on a proposal to eliminate the official Office of the Chirurgeonate, and the associated changes to Corpora necessary to accomplish this action.

The Office of the Society Chirurgeon has been providing exemplary service to the Society since 1986. The Society and Board of Directors are tremendously grateful for the sterling service the Office of the Society Chirurgeon has provided over the years, and hope to continue to allow licensed first aid providers to provide such service, while needing to take into account the realities of the climate in which the SCA currently operates.

The Board of Directors has been advised by its outside counsel, as well as by its insurance company, that having officers of the Corporation acting as emergency services providers and warranting them as official Chirurgeons represents an unacceptable assumption of liability by the Corporation for the actions of these individuals. The SCA can allow individual medical professionals to provide emergency care under their own licenses and the various Good Samaritan laws. Such services can also be provided by professional emergency services organizations and companies that provide such services. However, having corporate officers and warranted officials do so represents an unacceptable risk according to both our outside counsel and our insurance company.

Acting upon the recommendations of our professional advisors, the Board of Directors of the SCA, Inc. seeks commentary regarding a proposal to eliminate the Office of the Society Chirurgeon, the Kingdom and local Chirurgeons, and all associated Deputies and warranted Chirurgeons as of a future date. All Society Chirurgeonate activities and warrants of office would cease at that time. Any emergency services at SCA activities would thereafter only be performed by Good Samaritans under their own licenses, or by professionals or professional organizations specifically hired or called by event staff to provide such services.

Individuals with appropriate emergency care related licenses or those acting under the general Good Samaritan laws that might be applicable are, of course, free to provide emergency care at SCA activities under the terms of their licenses and applicable state and local laws. However, they would be doing so as volunteers and would not be warranted by the SCA nor hold an SCA office related to the provision of emergency care services. Similarly, professional emergency care organizations (e.g., municipal, non-profit or for-profit ambulance providers) that are not affiliated with or part of the SCA or any SCA organization, might provide emergency care services at SCA events (particularly larger SCA wars) through arranged voluntary or for-hire agreements with event staff. Licensed individuals would still be able to provide significant service to their local groups, Kingdoms, and the Society by offering to provide any emergency services under their own licenses (and would thus be worthy of any and all appropriate awards) — but would no longer be providing such services through an official Society Chirurgeonate.

The SCA would no longer maintain an Office of the Society Chirurgeon, Kingdom or local Chirurgeons, or warrant any Chirurgeons or Chirurgeonate activity. However, individuals are still encouraged to meet and pursue any and all SCA-related interests on their own. People are, of course, free to pursue and provide emergency care at SCA activities as licensed medical practitioners under the licensing laws of their state or any Good Samaritan laws that might be applicable. Any such unofficial organizations, communications, or provision of emergency care related services would not be sponsored or overseen by the SCA, Inc. or any of its groups.

The SCA would no longer have Corporate, Kingdom, or local Chirurgeon officers or warranted Chirurgeons, so any and all class material taught on any related subjects would be developed and provided by SCA members individually and based on their own accreditation, licenses, and experience. Because the SCA, Inc., does not endorse or supply the content of any classes taught at SCA activities (other than those being taught by Officers in support of their Office), individual members are free to teach classes on any material that might be related to unofficial first aid activities, but would be doing so strictly as individuals with no official sanction or involvement of SCA, Inc. As individuals, such service could also be considered worthy of any and all appropriate awards, although there would be no relationship to an official Society Chirurgeonate.

The Board of Directors seeks comments on the matter through 03/18/2014, which can be directed to comments@sca.org. Additionally, we invite all those interested to send their comments to the Society Chirurgeon (chirurgeon@sca.org). The Board of Directors invites the populace to take advantage of the range of our communication outlets -- including email lists, social media venues, and public meetings -- to discuss the issue, but would simply like to remind everybody that courtesy and the presumption of honor are core values of the Society, and apply equally in on line venues as they do at SCA events. Additionally, the Board of Directors will be holding a public meeting at Gulf Wars, where these interested in discussing this issue are welcome to hear what the Board has to say and share their feedback.

Comments are strongly encouraged and can be sent to:

SCA Inc.
